About Idahoan Foods, LLC

For 60 years, the name Idahoan has stood for the highest-quality potatoes in the world. Back in 1960, a group of Eastern Idaho’s potato growers and local businessmen joined forces to share their potatoes with the world. Our products are renowned for their perfect flavor and texture by foodservice operators and their customers alike. At Idahoan, our potatoes are the best because potatoes are all we do. We control every aspect of our production process – something most competitors can’t say. As stewards of the land, we reuse our water for irrigation, our waste is recycled as animal feed, and our fresh-dried potatoes significantly cut back on the emission-producing transport space and refrigeration. What’s more, our potatoes are custom-grown for our products – and we’ve used our 60 years of experience to develop proprietary cooking techniques that deliver superior flavor and texture in every serving.
